

RYARSH AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE

Jude

Seahorse Class

I must say that Seahorse class have all made such a tremendous leap into the demands of year one that picking the first recipient of an Excellence Award for this year was a rather challenging job. However, after some thought and consideration, Mrs Eames and I are both confident that we have picked a truly deserving winner in Jude.

From day one of year one, Jude has impressed us with his enthusiasm and continuous determination to try hard and succeed. He is positive about all areas of learning and having witnessed one or two 'light bulb moments' from him already, it is clear he holds a real passion for learning. Jude listens beautifully on the carpet and day by day, is contributing more readily and confidently to both small group and whole class discussions. His work in his books is getting neater and Jude is growing into an independent learner who is keen to work things out by himself and loves a challenge!

Jude is a kind friend who looks out for all members of his class and is rarely seen without a broad, cheeky grin spread across his face. He demonstrates many of our school values in his everyday actions and is a polite, well-mannered and respectful member of our class. He is keen to learn new things and applies the same excitement and can-do attitude to all aspects of the curriculum.

It is sometimes hard for the Seahorses to adapt to the busy days that year one demands, however Jude is keeping up wonderfully and never once complains about the amount of work or asks when it is time to play or go home. He seems to have settled into the routine of year one beautifully and really is the 'happy chappy' of the class.

I hope that the rest of Seahorse Class would like to join me and Mrs Eames in saying a great big WELL DONE to Jude for his efforts. He is a great member of the class and our days wouldn't be the same without his presence! Keep up the great work Jude!
