RYARSH AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE

Nina

Orang-utan Class

An Excellence Award for term 1 of Year Six has proved to be a very difficult decision. There have been so many moments, from so many children, which have exemplified the standard expected of a Year Six child, and so many examples of Orang-utans going above and beyond to set the example as role models, responsible children and outstanding Buddies to our brand new Dolphins. But Mrs Parfitt and myself have chosen a person who has demonstrated this attitude day on day, and has pushed herself to achieve her very best across every subject area.

It has been an amazing term for Nina, who has shown herself to be resourceful, responsible and optimistic, approaching every task and challenge with a smile and a reasoned, reasoned outlook. She explains her ideas carefully and confidently, and knows that a task is never truly finished until it has been checked, edited, improved and ensured that it is perfect. Nina always strives to give her very best, and this has shown itself in some outstanding pieces of work of which she should be truly proud.

Nina enters the Pod every morning with a smile and impeccable manners, and, without fuss or distraction, sets herself straight to her morning task, which is always completed to the highest standard. Her confidence in Maths and English has shone through across the last seven weeks, and it is always a treat to read her writing and see her creativity shining through.

Nina's confidence shone through once again on our trip to the Houses of Parliament in Westminster, where she was chosen as the leader of her political party in our mock-election activity session. She spoke with clarity and passion about her chosen issues, and won over the voters well. This confident speaking was also seen in our recent class assembly, where she showed herself to be an excellent Speaker of the House.

I know that this term is just the start of what will be an incredible year for Nina, and I can't wait to see where it takes her next.
